AN OPEN LETTER TO E. C. DE BACA, DELEGATE

"Oaks White," Democrat, Seems to Have Grave Fears That His Party is Going Down in Defeat This Fall

SAYS WILSON HAS EXHIBITED A SHOW OF BACK BONE

You will excuse me for taking the liberty of addressing you thus publicly. My acquaintance with you being only in your public capacity is my excuse. It seems to me that the occasion is paramount.

We as Democrats know that we must do something extraordinary to win the coming national election. There is no use in beating birds found the bush. While Mr. Wilson has exhibited a show of back bone in the submarine matter with Germany, it was like hitting a man when he was down. Germany is fighting the world and could not afford to break with the U. S. It was an opportune moment for Mr. Wilson to exhibit a show of back bone. On the other hand the true peaceful tendencies of the man have been shown in the Mexico matter. Instead of back bone it has been back down.

Now my proposition is just this: Here in the Southwest the sentiment is for stalwart dealing with Mexico. The man of the largest development of cheek and bravado is popular—Roosevelt. Democrats are all for him to be nominated by the Republicans. He goes up and down the country knocking his teeth and looking savage. He has exercised his teeth so much because the U. S. wouldn't fight that they are the most prominent feature of his otherwise mild and lovely face. Set as they are between cheeks that have the world beaten for cheek they remind me of what Roscoe Conklin said of him. Conklin was at the time the great leader of the Republicans of the Empire state New York, while Roosevelt had just started out on his brilliant career as policeman, or some other office in connection with the police department of New York City. Someone suggested Roosevelt as fit for some office. Conklin said: "That young man with the big teeth?" He thinks that he discovered the top commandments.

This sentiment in the Southwest has made me bold to address you. You, of course, couldn't do otherwise than advocate a bold policy in our national convention. You would be going contrary to public sentiment in your own state to advocate peace at any price, then jeopardizing your political future. On the other hand the only chance for our party to win is in adopting a platform for peace even if we have to run for it. I call to my support on this proposition no less a person than Wm. J. Bryan, who has peerlessly carried our business in three campaigns. He says the only chance the Democrats have to win is by throwing out from our sinking ship a bait to catch the peace loving Republicans.

As a warrior candidate Wilson would be beaten to a frazzle. He can easily stand on a peace platform. He is never bound by his platform. We cannot disguise the fact if we would, that he is the logical candidate. Every man of our party of status sufficient to aspire to the great office is willing to stand aside and see Wilson lead the forlorn hope.

This brings me to what I want to say. Since it would be political death for you to stand up in our national convention and advocate a peace platform, your only escape is in proving an alibi. I am willing to pacify myself as your proxy.

The idea of being a proxy is very distasteful to me. In our local convention I can usually go as a regular delegate. Sometimes at our primaries in this place I am the only person present and then all I have to do is to send myself. I have never yet met a ——— in the convention.

The very first time I had to consider a proxy I could but look upon it with contempt. It was years ago when the hay market riot occurred in Chicago. August Spies was sentenced to be hung with other rioters. The daughter of Mrs. Van Gard who was an anarchist lecture fell in love with August. He was in prison and their marriage was celebrated through his proxy. It appeared in the papers thus: "Marriage by Proxy." Hans Snyder had a sweetheart in the far off fatherland while Hans lived in Milwaukee and tooted in the band. He loved his sweetheart fondly and keenly felt her loss. But Hans had not the money to pay her way across. So Wilhelmina waited and Snyder waited too, because in their condition they had nothing else to do. One morning in the paper Hans Snyder read about how Rins and August knocked everybody out. "Des marriage by proxy just fit me like a shoe, and me and Wilhelmina will marry dat very way too." Hans thought then wrote a letter, no sooner said than done, and Hans and Wilhelmina were speedily made one.

"Ten years of married proxy had fled into the past and Hans and Wilhelmina were soon to meet at last. For she was coming to him across the billows, his faithful Wilhelmina, the lily of the Rhine." "The day of her arrival Hans Snyder laughed and cried and waited at the station to greet his charming bride. She came at last and Hans stood at the station gate, to greet his Wilhelmina, but not the other eight.

"Hans looked on in some amazement and Wilhelmina cried, dot is your fader child go stand up mit his side. Hans stood among them as passive as a bleat, but in his soul he muttered I no like that by dam."

Bill Bryan is in the same predicament as I am. If he goes to the convention he has got to get a proxy. I hope he will be there. He could lend me valuable assistance in forcing a peace plank into our platform.

You may want to know how I stand on the candidate, whom I am for, I will do as you advise about that. There are only two men available, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Ford. Bryan is three times and out. His experience has been a school of adversity to our party. From that experience he has qualified himself to advise his party how to win. He says it must be on a peace platform.

There is no doubt of Mr. Ford's principal on peace. On all other subjects we don't know how he stands. But if we make peace the paramount issue he has demonstrated how he stands. He has spent millions to stop the European war, there can be but one objection to Mr. Ford. If he was taken by surprise by one of his enemies, the overland, for instance, he might be overtaken before he could crank up his machine and escape. He would then have to fight because he couldn't run.

OAKS WHITE.

COMPANIES THAT ARE INCORPORATING

SYBEL PERRY A BRIDE

Miss Sybel Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Perry of this city, was married last Thursday at Plainview, Texas, to Mr. E. W. Drashers, a promising young business man of the above place. The bride had been attending school in Plainview for the past two years where she formed the acquaintance of Mr. Drashers, and had just recently graduated from the Wayland Baptist College in music and elocution. She was one of Carrizozo's most estimable, young ladies and will be greatly missed here among the younger set, of which she has many friends.

Mrs. H. B. Hamilton and two sons, Wayne and Mayo, motored up from El Paso Tuesday evening in their new "Oakland" car, where the boys have been attending school for the past ten months. Mr. Hamilton who had been in Las Cruces for several days on business came along also.

RETURNS FROM RUIDOSO

Judge Medler who was reported to have been quite sick over on the Ruidoso where he went several days ago to look after the erection of his summer cottage, returned to Carrizozo today. Provided his condition will permit the Judge will likely reconvene court tomorrow and clean up the docket of the April term of District Court.

WILL DO BETTER IN FUTURE

For the past two weeks the Outlook has been a day late making its appearance, due to the fact that out force has been greatly rushed with legal notices and rush orders for job and commercial printing. After this rush, which will likely last about two more weeks, we will be able to come out on scheduled time and we promise our readers a more newspaper than the last two issues have been.

OSCURO

The Congressional Union for Woman's Suffrage has appointed Mrs. George Castle of Oscura as one of the delegates to the Woman's Party Convention in session in Chicago this week.

R. W. Burns has just shipped in a carload of hay. He is looking for a dry season and from present indications, he has the right "hunch."

Daniel Brennan of Pacific, Mo., arrived here last Monday to visit his daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Matthews are the proud parents of a son and heir who arrived early this week.

NOGAL

Dan Bullion has moved his family to Nogal from White Oaks. Dan has a position in the mine here.

Tom Whitaker has bought a five acre tract of land from Thos. W. Henley. He contemplates building a house for his family so the children can attend school.

We are informed that the foundation for the new machinery at the Helen Rae mine is progressing rapidly.

The protracted meeting of the people of the Nazarin faith was postponed Sunday evening until sometime in the month of July.

We are sorry to learn that the oldest daughter of James Gatewood died last week. Interment was made in the Carrizozo cemetery.

Mrs. Prude and mother were visitors at the garden last Saturday.

Miss Lorena Sager who has been in Denver for the past year employed as a music teacher arrived home yesterday and will spend the summer here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sager.

Wm. Cole and Dewey Herron are here for a few days' visit with their parents from Columbus, where they are employed by the government on motor trucks.

Mrs. Wm. Barnett who has been suffering with rheumatism for the past two weeks is reported as being much improved.

Ernest Matthews and William Sterling, members of the school board at Oscura, were in Carrizozo Monday, coming up to receive the bids for an additional room to the Oscura school building.

NEWS NOTES FROM RUIDOSO AND ANCHO

Judge E. L. Medler and J. B. Newell of Las Cruces and Dr. Watson of Carrizozo Building on Ruidoso

MANY CAMPERS ENJOYING MOUNTAIN OUTING

Judge E. L. Medler and J. B. Newell, of Las Cruces, and Dr. T. W. Watson, of Carrizozo, are building summer homes up near the reservation line, while many other campers are pitching their tents up and down the river, where many attractive camping spots may be found.

Among the week end visitors at the White Mountain Inn were H. S. Potter, Wm. H. F. Judd, R. H. Wilcox, E. J. Davis, Ira Smith, T. H. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Aissa, Mr. and Mrs. Alves Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Billings, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Turney, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Stewart, all of El Paso.

Daily mail service and telephone communication to the White Mountain Inn are convenient for those desiring to be in touch with affairs at home, while those not desiring such may seclude themselves in the fastness of the mountains.

Those who went up the river fishing report some of the best fishing ever experienced on the Ruidoso. The weather is ideal in beautiful warm days and the nights so cool that several pairs of blankets make one feel comfortable.

From the middle of June the fishing is best, and many people are now using the angle worm and heligermite to advantage while the water is yet snow cold.
